1. (Currently Amended) An article of headwear having an adjustment system for accommodating various head dimensions, the headwear comprising a crown for covering at least a portion of a head, the crown being at least partially formed of a first elastic material, and the crown including a strip of a second elastic material, wherein the second elastic material is silicone, the strip being secured onto a surface of the crown, and the strip defining a plurality of apertures extending through the strip to expose portions of the first elastic material.

2-17. (Cancelled)

18. (Currently Amended) A cap having an adjustment system for accommodating various head dimensions, the cap comprising:

a crown for covering at least a portion of a head, the crown being at least partially formed of a first elastic material, and the crown including a flap positioned adjacent an interior surface of the crown, and the crown including a strip of a second elastic material that is bonded onto the flap, wherein the second elastic material is silicone, and the strip defining a plurality of apertures extending through the strip to expose portions of the first elastic material; and a visor attached to the crown.

19-27. (Cancelled)

28. (Currently Amended) A cap having an adjustment system for accommodating various head dimensions, the cap comprising:

a crown for covering at least a portion of a head, the crown being at least partially formed of an elastic textile, and the crown including a flap positioned adjacent an interior surface of the crown, the flap defining a first surface and an opposite second surface, the first surface being oriented to face away from the head and the second surface being oriented to face the head, and the crown including a strip of elastic silicone that is bonded onto the first surface, wherein the elastic textile and the elastic silicone stretch in a direction of a circumference of the crown, the strip including a plurality of perforations that form apertures extending entirely through the strip, the perforations being aligned to form parallel rows of the perforations; and a visor attached to the crown, the visor having a configuration that expands in response to a stretching of the crown.

29-42. (Cancelled)

43. (Currently Amended) A cap having an adjustment system for accommodating various head dimensions, the cap comprising:

a crown including a plurality of panels formed from a first elastic material, the panels being attached together to form a generally hemispherical structure for extending over a head, at least one of the panels having:

a primary section forming at least a portion of an exterior of the crown, and an extension that is attached to an edge of the primary section, the extension being folded relative to the primary section and located adjacent to the primary section, the extension having a first surface oriented to face the primary section and an opposite second surface oriented to face the head, and the crown including a strip of a second elastic material that is attached to the first surface, wherein the second elastic material is silicone that is secured to the first surface, and the crown including a sweatband attached to the second surface; and

44-62. (Cancelled)
